Giovanni Barberi introduces Timeworn Spina Pesce Marble Mosaics. This antiqued natural stone tile collection reveals new modern patterns that capture the treasured, timeless style and the rich texture of the naturally worn floors in Italian historic buildings. No matter the amount of usage that the marble is subjected to, its sheen and uniqueness remain unaltered to maintain its original natural aesthetic.

The easy care, maintenance, and long-lasting authentic texture make it the very best antiqued natural stone tile on the market today. The tile is both beautiful and environmentally friendly. The artisan process first wears down the borders of the tiles then creates a semi-opaque natural, wavy surface. The procedure “consumes” the softer parts of the marble composition. No oil/water repellent is necessary because the polish application is adequate to protect it from occasional spills and stains. A surface treatment is not necessary nor will it make the tile shinier than the polished finish, alone. However, oil, wine or similar products, if left on the floor for long periods or hours, will stain any marble or grouting that has not been recently treated with oil/water repellent products. The final result is a truly timeless work of art by an Italian master. Spina Pesce can be laid out in the “herringbone” pattern for which it is named or in a straight pattern and can be made custom in any marble of your choosing.

Lead Time: 8-12 weeks.
